HOW TO CURE CONSUMPTION.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF DR. SCHENCK'S GREAT MEDICINES.—Will people never learn to know that a diseased liver and stomach necessarily diseases the entire system? The plainest principles of common sense teach this and yet there are hundreds who ridicule the idea, and continue in the course which almost inevitably brings them prematurely to the grave. Living as the majority of the people do, at complete variance with the laws of nature, it must be apparent to all that, sooner or later, nature will revenge herself. Hence we find that persons who indulge to excess in the use of very rich or indigestible food or intoxicating drinks, invariably pay a heavy penalty in the end. The stomach becomes disordered and refuses to act: the liver fails to perform its functions, dyspepsia and its attendant evils follow, and still the suffering individuals persist in clinging to the thoroughly exploded idea of the past. Dr. SCHENK'S medicines are recommended to all such. They bring sure and certain relief wherever they are used as directed, and all that is necessary to establish their reputation with every ailing man or woman in the lands is a fair and impartial trial of them. Let those who are skeptical on this point, and who have permitted interested persons to prejudice them against these now celebrated remedies for consumption, discard their prejudices, and be governed by the principles of reason and common sense. If the system is disordered depend upon it, in nine cases out of ten the seat of the disorder will be found in the stomach and liver. To cleanse and invigorate the stomach and to stimulate the liver to healthy action, use

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS.—The daily increasing demand for these pills in the best evidence of their value. Thousands upon thousands of boxes are sold daily. Why? Simply because they act promptly and efficiently. Invalids who may not find it convenient to call on Dr. SCHENCK in person are informed that full and complete directions for use accompany each package of the MANDRAKE PILLS, PULMONIC SYRUP AND SEAWEED TONIC.—These medicines will cure consumption unless the lungs are so far gone that the patient is entire ly beyond the reach of medical relief.

It may be asked by those who are not familiar with the virtues of these great remedies, "How do Dr. Schenck's medicines effect their wonderful cures of consumption?" The answer is a simple one. They begin their work of restoration by bringing the stomach, liver and bowels into an active healthy condition. It is God that cures the formidable disease. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS act on the liver and stomach, promoting healthy secretion, and removing the bile and stimo which have resulted from the inactive or torpid condition of those organs, and of the system generally. This sluggish state of the body, and the consequent accumulation of the unhealthy substances named prevent the proper digestion of food, and, as a natural consequence creates disease, which results in prostration and finally in death.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP and SEAWEED TONIC, when taken regularly, mingle with the food, and the digestive organs, make good and rich blood, and as a natural consequence, give flesh and strength to the patient. Let the faculty say what it may, this is the only true cure for consumption. Experience has proved beyond the shadow of a doubt, and thousands are to-day alive and well who a few years since were regarded as hopeless cases, but who were induced to try Dr. SCHENCK'S remedies, and were restored to permanent health by their use.

One of the first steps the physician should take with a consumptive patient is to invigorate the system. Now how is this to be done? Certainly not by giving medicines that exhaust and enervate—medicines that impair instead of improve the functions of the digestive organs Doctor SCHENCK'S medicines cleanse the stomach and bowels of all substances which are calculated to irritate or weaken them. They create an appetite—promote healthful digestion—make good blood, and, as a consequence, they invigorate and strengthen the entire system and more especially those parts which are diseased If this cannot be done, then the case must be regarded as a hopeless one.

If the physician finds it impossible to make a patient feel hungry, if the deceased person cannot partake of good nourishing food and properly digest it, it is impossible that he can gain in flesh and strength; and it is equally impossible to bring a patient to this condition so long as the liver is burdened with diseased bile, and the stomach laden with unhealthy slime.

Almost the first request made to the physician by a consumptive patient is that he will prescribe medicines that will allay the cough, night sweats and chills, which are the sure attendants on consumption. But this should not be done; as the coughs are but an effort of nature to relieve itself, and the night sweats and chills are caused by the diseased lungs. The remedies ordinarily prescribed do more harm than good. They impair the functions of the stomach, impede healthy digestion, and aggravate rather than cure the disease.

These facts, after all, nothing like facts which to substantiate a position, and it is upon facts that Dr. Schenck's rests. Nearly all who have taken his medicines in accordance with his directions have not only been cured of consumption, but, from the fact that these medicines act with wonderful power upon the digestive organs, patients thus cured speedily gain flesh. Cleansing the system of all impurities, they lay the foundation for a solid, substantial structure. Restoring these organs to health, they create an appetite. The food is properly assimilated; the quantity of blood is not only increased, but is made rich and strong and in the face of such a condition of the system all disease must be banished.

Full directions accompany each of the medicines, so that it is not absolutely necessary that patients should see Dr. SCHENCK personally, unless they desire to have their lungs examined. For this purpose he is at his office, No. 15 North Sixth St., corner of Commerce, Phila., every saturday, from 9 A. M. until 1 P. M.

Advice is given without charge, but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer the charge is $5.

TRIED FOR FORGERY.

There lived in the city of P——, in the State of Pennsylvania, a gentleman on the shady side of sixty, who had by industry and economy amassed a large competence, sustaining in all the work of life a character above suspicion. He was the head of a fine family, and noted for his eccentricities and his peculiar style of dress. He was stooped shouldered, limped a little, and for ten years previous to the time of the scene about to be narrated, wore a coat that had turned red with age.

It was the middle of the afternoon of a cloudy, dismal day in March, when an old man entered one of the banks in the city named, and presented a check for payment. The cashier took it and paid over to the man the sum of $80,000, and he descended the steps into the street.

In less than five minutes after he had left, the check was discovered to be a forgery. The proper authorities were immediately notified by the cashier, who gave them a description of the person, and rigid search was immediately commenced. In about half an hour afterwards, an officer entered the bank with a man answering to the description, and, presenting him to the cashier, asked him if that was the man.

"That is the man; I cannot be mistaken," he replied. He eyed him a little closer, being near sighted, and throwing up his hands, he exclaimed:

"Mr. Rawling, (the gentleman alluded to in the opening of the narrative,) can it be possible that you have committed this forgery?"

The old man protested his innocence, but of no avail; for he was led away to prison to await the sitting of court.

His friends wished to go his bail, but he obstinately refused to accept release, and lay in jail three months.

The day of trial came on, and, although defended by the best legal talent, the evidence against him was conclusive, and he was convicted.

It was sentence day The court room was filled with spectators, and the friends and relatives of the prisoner. It was a sorrowful scene, and among the participants were the wife and two lovely daughters of Mr. Rawling, their beautiful faces swollen with weeping over the sad fate of their father. One by one the prisoners descended from the box and received their sentences.

Rawling was next in turn: There was an awful silence for some moments when the judge, in a choking, trembling voice, for he was an intimate friend of the condemned man, said:

"Mr. Rawling!"

He arose and took a stand before the judge.

The judge proceeded:

"Have you or any one in the room a reason why the sentence of the law should not be passed against you?"

Here a terrible silence ensued, almost paralyzing the hearts of many anxious friends; when, all at once, a prisoner in the box, a young man, arose and said, "I have."

"Your reason," said the judge.

"Because he is not guilty. I will explain."

What a mountain's weight of sorrow was lifted from the hearts of some by the pronunciation of these words "not guilty."

"Proceed! Proceed!" cried a hundred voices.

"I will. If you will send some reliable man—an officer or two—with me to a certain point on the main highway leading out of the city; under a flat stone of peculiar shape, you will find $10,000 of the money, the balance I lost at faro.

They started, followed by a crowd. In an hour—an hour of anxiety and excitement—they returned, and produced the money in court.

"Now," said the prisoner, "send to room No. 14, at the Lindon House, on A—— street, and you will find a hair trunk, which you will bring to me."

In due time the trunk was brought in court, and at the previous secret request of the judge, through the sheriff, he and the trunk were placed in one ante-room and Mr. Rawling in another.

In a few minutes he or Rawling, no one knew which it was, took his place in the box, and the judge ordered the Sheriff to summon the cashier, which he did.

He now came in.

"Are you the cashier of the bank in which that check was forged for $30,000?"

"I am, sir."

"Before passing sentence upon this man I would have you look at him and tell the court he is the man," said the judge.

"He is the man. I cannot be mistaken, although I am sorry to say it."

Here the prisoner suddenly twitched the whiskers from his face, threw off his hat and coat, and stood in his shirt sleeves a more boy. The cashier swooned, fell upon the floor, and was carried out of the court room.

"I am the man," said the prisoner, "who did the forging of that check.—I came from England a few months ago, determined to make a raise. I knew the man would be looked at and not the check. How well I did it you all know; but I could not see an innocent man suffer for a crime that I had committed."

Rawling was discharged and borne off triumphantly on the shoulders of his friends, and in consideration of the honesty of heart of the young man, the Government commuted his sentence from twenty to two years—he having been convicted of another indictment.

Weston's Walk.

Weston commenced his great walk in New York of one hundred miles in twenty-two hours at fifteen minutes after midnight on the 26th ult. The match originated from an offer made by Mr. Wallace, the manager of the Empire City Rink, to give Mr. Weston the sum of $1500 if he would walk 100 miles in twenty-two hours, the track to be laid inside the rink. The City Surveyor measured the track and stated that it would take 717 revolutions and 706 feet to make the distance.—Seven times round and 132 feet made a mile.

On receiving the word Weston started off with an easy, elastic gait, which he gradually improved until he made the revolution of the ball in one minute and thirty seconds, after which he averaged about one minute and forty-two seconds to each revolution. At his 35th mile, having walked nearly incessantly with only five minutes' rest, he called for a drink and was given some lemonade, with a portion of which he washed his mouth. In his 53d mile he rested for nine and a half minutes, and ate some crackers and coffee and bathed his feet in brandy. His quickest round, the last of the 50th mile, was walked in one minute and twenty seconds.

Bareheaded, clad only in his shirt and tight velvet trousers, with shoes and leggings, Weston shot along like a human comet. Every time he passed the judge's stand a hearty clapping of hands saluted him. On the last mile the excitement was tremendous, and when Weston came up, smiling and bowing, the air was rent with hurrahs and bravos and stamping of feet, and hats and handkerchiefs were waved on every side. He had 21 minutes and 15 seconds to spare. Weston mounted the raised platform, where his wife and children were sitting, and made a neat little speech of thanks, amid renewed cheering.

The crowd then slowly dispersed, and Mr. Weston finally left in a carriage for his home. He showed very few signs of fatigue, but laughed and chatted with his friends as though he had been taking merely a little half mile stroll instead of a hundred mile journey. The purse of $1500 to which he is entitled will be handed to him without delay, and he will soon sail for Europe, carrying with him the proud consciousness of having fairly performed an unparalleled task, and proved himself beyond question the champion walker of the age.

☞ Some years since a prominent business man of Northampton, Mass., who began to sow his wild oats when a boy, and hasn't got all through yet, attended a colored ball on Market st. in that town. After each 'breakdown' he noticed that a well near the house—by the way a shallow one—was resorted to by the men to quench their thirst. Unobserved, while the dance was going on, he slipped out of the house and moved the curb a few feet beyond the well, and awaited the result. Presently out came one of the dancers, and plump into the well he went. Blowing and puffing he came up to the top and exclaimed: "By glory! who's moved dat well since I's out here last."

☞ Isabel—"But grandma, dear, she's not a bit pretty, looks very stupid, and hasn't a shilling. What can he be going to marry her for?"

Grandma—"Well, my dear, you will think it one of my old-fashioned notions—but perhaps it is for love."

☞ "I never knew a man," says an old author, "who could not bear another's misfortune like a christian"—which reminds us of the old lady who thought every calamity that happened to herself a trial, and every one that happened to a friend a judgment.

☞ Why is a pig's tail like a carving knife? Because it is flourished over a ham.

Walk for Land in Pennsylvania.

In 1732, Thomas Penn contracted with Teedyuscuing and some others for a title to all the land in Pennsylvania to be taken off by a parallel of latitude from any point as far as the best of three men could walk in a day, between sunrise and sunset, from a certain chestnut tree, at or near Bristol, in a northwest direction. Care was taken to select the most capable for such a walk. The choice fell on James Yates, a native of Bucks county, a tall, slim man, of much agility and speed of foot; Solomon Jennings, a Yankee, remarkably stout and strong; Edward Marshall, a native of Bucks county, a noted hunter, chain-carrier, &c., a large heavy set, and strong-boned man.

The day was appointed and the champions notified. The people collected at what they thought the first twenty miles of the Durham road, to see them pass. First came Yates, stepping as light as a feather, accompanied by Thomas Penn and attendants on horseback. After him, but out of sight, came Jennings, with a strong, steady step; and not far behind, Edward Marshall, apparently careless, swinging a hatchet in his hand, and eating a dry biscuit. Bets ran in favor of Yates. Marshall took biscuits to support his stomach, and carried a hatchet to swing in his hands alternately, that the action in the arms should balance that in his legs, as he was fully determined to beat the others, or die in the attempt. He first saw Yates in descending Durham Creek, and gained on him. There he saw Yates sitting on a log, very tired; presently he fell off and gave up the walk. Marshall kept on, and before he reached the Lehigh, overtook and passed Jennings—waded the river at Bethlehem—hurried on faster and faster by where Nazareth stands, to the Wind Gap.

That was as far as the path had been marked for them to walk on, and there was a collection of people waiting to see if any of the three would reach it by sunset. He only halted for the surveyor to give him a pocket-compass, and started again. Three Indian runners were sent after him to see if he walked it fair, and how far he went. He then passed to the right of Pocono Mountain, the Indians finding it difficult to keep him in sight, till he reached Still Water; and he would have gone a few miles further but for the water. There he marked a tree, witnessed by the three Indians. The distance he walked between sun and sun, not being in a straight line, and about thirty miles of it through woods, was estimated to be from one hundred and ten to one hundred and twenty miles. He thus won the great prize, which was five hundred pounds in money, and five hundred acres of land anywhere in the purchase.

James Yates, who led the way for the first thirty miles or more, was quite blind when taken out of Durham Creek, and lived but three days afterwards. Solomon Jennings survived but a few years. Edward Marshall lived and died on Marshall's Island, in the Delaware river. He arrived at about ninety years of age. He was a great hunter, and it is said he discovered a rich silver mine, which rendered him and his family connections affluent; but he never disclosed where it was, and it continues unknown to this day.

☞ In a religious excitement in Boston, a person met a neighbor who took him by the hand and said:

"I have become a Christian?"

"I am glad of it," he replied. "Suppose we now have a settlement of that little account between us. Pay me what thou owest."

"No," said the new-born child, turning on his heel: "religion is religion, and business is business!"

Isn't there too much such religion?

☞ "And Satan smote Job with boils" is now rendered: "And Satan smote Job with circumscribed subcutaneous inflammations, characterized by pointed tumors, and suppurating with central cores." Those physicians who quote a page of some medical book to explain a disease will do well to commit the above to memory.

☞ A soldier was wounded by a shell from Fort Wagner. He was going to the rear.

"Wounded by a shell?" asked one.

"Yes," he coolly answered; "I was right under the darned thing when the bottom dropped out."

☞ A young man having devoted himself to the special entertainment of a company of pretty girls the whole evening, demanded payment in kisses—when one of them instantly replied "Certainly, sir; present your bill."

The Sabbath.

The following testimonies and experiences, not of the clergy, but of statesmen, philosophers, and men of wide reputation in legal, medical, literary and commercial life, bearing on a subject attracting considerable attention at the present time, may not be uninteresting to our readers:

"If Sunday had not been observed as a day of rest during the last three centuries, I have not the smallest doubt that we should have been at this moment a poorer and less civilized people than we are."—Lord Macaulay.

"There is no religion without worship, or no worship without the Sabbath."—Count Montalembert.

"The more faithfully I apply myself to the duties of the Lord's day, the more happy and successful is my business during the week."—Sir Matthew Hale.

"A corruption of morals usually follows a profanation of the Sabbath."—Blackstone.

"The Sabbath as a political institution is of inestimable value, independently of its claim to divine authority."—Adam Smith.

"Sunday is a day of account, and a candid account every seventh day is the best preparation for the great day of account."—Lord Kames.

"I can truly declare that to me the Sabbath has been invaluable."—William Wilberforce.

"Give the world half of Sunday, and you will find religion has no strong hold of the other."—Sir Walter Scott.

"Where there is no Christian Sabbath there is no Christian morality; and without this, free institutions cannot long be sustained."—Justice McLean.

"The longer I live the more highly do I estimate the Christian Sabbath, and the more grateful do I feel toward those who impress its importance on the community."—Daniel Webster.

In a general order, issued November 15, 1862, President Lincoln commanded that "Sunday labor in the army and navy be reduced to the measure of strict necessity. The discipline and character of the national forces should not suffer, nor the cause they defend be imperiled, by the profanation of the day or name of the Most High."

Attorney-General Bates, of the Cabinet, wrote: "The religious character of an institution so ancient, so sacred, so lawful and so necessary to the peace, the comfort and the respectability of society, ought alone to be sufficient for its protection; but, that failing, surely the laws of the land made for its account ought to be as strictly enforced, as the laws for the protection of person and property. If the Sunday laws be neglected or despised the laws of person and property will soon share their fate and be equally disregarded."

"The Sabbath must be observed as a day of rest. This I do not state as an opinion, but knowing that it has its foundation upon a law in man's nature as fixed as that he must take food or die."—Dr. Willard Parker, of New York City.

"As a day of rest, I view the Sabbath as a day of compensation for the inadequate restorative power of the body under continued labor and excitement. One day in seven, by the bounty of Providence, is thrown in as a day of compensation to perfect by its repose the animal system."—John Richard Farre, M. D, of London, England.

La Presse, one of the great secular journals of Paris, has said, "England "owes much of her energy and character to the religious keeping of Sunday. "Why cannot France follow her, as the "Sabbath was made for all men, and "we need its blessing?

The present Lord Chancellor of England stated at a public meeting, "I am glad to say that our Sunday in "London is not yet like a continental "Sunday. Looking at the question "from the lowest point of view, it is "the especial duty and interest of "working men to discourage all attempt "to interfere with the seventh day as "a day of rest; for, once let the Parisian system come into vogue in this "country, under which the scaffolds of "public buildings were as crowded "with workmen on Sunday as on any "other day, and they would have to "work seven days for the pay now received for six."

"So far as my observation extends, those who are in the habit of avoiding worldly cares on the Sabbath are those most remarkable for the perfect performance of their duties during the week. I have a firm belief that such persons are able to do more work, and do it in a better manner, in six days, than if they worked the whole seven."—John C. Warren, M. D., Professor in the Medical College of Harvard University.

"A very profound and wonderful reform has just been begun in Paris. The principal shops—including those of nearly all the linen drapers, hosiers, silk mercers, and venders of ready made apparel — will henceforth be closed on Sundays. The merchants have taken this step of their own accord, and the employes appeal to the good will of the public to aid them in making the measure general."—New York Times, June 8, 1869.

"I have long been of the opinion that it is to the interest of the railroad and steamboat companies to suspend operations on the Sabbath, as it demoralizes the men and makes them reckless, and so is the cause of many accidents. I believe railroad companies would be much more prosperous if Sunday running was entirly suspended. I suppose there are employed on the railways of the United States, on the Sabbath, thirty thousand men."—S. Ruth, Superintendent of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad.

"Many years' experience and observation more and more convince me as a railroad man that even in an economic point of view, there is no more profitable rule for us to follow than "remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy."—Col. Geo. A. Merrill, Superintendent of the Rutland and Burlington Railroad.

From experience I know that laborers, mechanics, managers, etc., will do more work, and do it better, in six days than in seven. Further, if we habitually ask our men to break God's law by a desecration of the Sabbath, it will not be long before they will break His law in other respects, by defrauding, etc."—J. P. Farley, Superintendent of the Dubuque and Sioux City Railroad.

"In nearly thirty years' experience on Western and Southern Railroads, I have never found it necessary to run Sunday trains, except were connecting or competing lines rendered it so, I think men perform more work in six days, resting every seventh, than when they work every day. I also think men are more reliable and trust worthy on roads where the Sabbath is observed, than where the day of rest is ignored."—E. G. Barney, Superintendent Selma, Rome and Dalton Railroad.

"I do not believe the running of Sunday trains is profitable to the company; and that it is a positive violation of Divine law, none can doubt."—Hon. Abram Murdock, President of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad.

"It is for the interest of the company to allow our employes the rest of the Sabbath."—E. B. Phillips, President of the Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Railroad.

"The want of cessation from labor on the canals, railroad and steamboat lines of the country on the Sabbath has a tendency to degrade the tone of morals in the community; yet less censure can attach to these men, who are compelled to labor for their daily bread, than to owners and employers who require the service to be performed."—J. Durand, General Superintendent of the Little Miami, Columbus and Zenia Railroad.

Business Maxims.

The money you can earn yourself is much brighter and sweeter than any you can get out of dead men's coffers.

Earn your money before you spend it; and then you will know what it is worth, and spend it more wisely.

Nothing is cheap to one who does not want it. He had better keep his money than to buy what he does not want.

Be careful in contracting debts, and careful in the extension of credits; and then, for both reasons, your business will be likely to prosper.

Do not be frequently changing from one form of business to another, since you will lose much time in making these changes. A rolling stone gathers no moss.

Never get another to do for you what you can just as well do for yourself. Money thus paid out, is thrown away.

Mind your own business, and the public will commend you for so doing.

Always be on time in everything, and then you will never be behind time.

Do your business honestly, and then you will have a good character among men.

Work rapidly and systematically, and you will double the value of time to yourself.

Be content with a legitimate business, and let speculation alone, and in the end you will be a richer man.

A DESIRABLE TRIO.—Some sensible person has given publicity to the following waif, which is certainly beautiful.

Three things to love—Courage, gentleness, and affection.

Three things to hate—Cruelty, arrogance, and ingratitude.

Three things to admire—Intellectual power, dignity, and gracefulness.

Three things to delight in—Beauty, frankness, and freedom.

Three things to wish for—Health, friends, and a cheerful spirit.

Three things to avoid—Idleness, loquacity, and flippant jesting.

Three things to pray for—Faith, peace, and purity of heart.

Three things to contend for—Honor, country, and friends.

Three things to govern—Temper, tongue, and conduct.

Three things to think about—Life, death, and eternity.

There are two things that always pay even in this not over-remunerative existence. They are working and waiting. Either is useless without the other. Both united are invincible, and inevitably triumphant. He who waits without working is simply a man yielding to sloth and despair. He who works without waiting is fitful in his strivings, and misses results by impatience. He who works steadily and waits patiently may have a long journey before him, but at its close he will find his reward.

Satire is an ugly weapon in the work of reform. It tears asunder, it cauterizes, it blisters. No one is really made better by it. The one assailed, though he may fear the sting, will never be better through its application, though he may seem so. A satirist lives all the time in boiling water.

THE total receipts from the internal revenue for the fiscal year, will reach $175,000,000.

THE $100,000 appropriation for a new expedition to the North Pole has passed the U. S. Senate.

A bill for the gradual abolition of slavery was introduced into the Spanish Cortes on Saturday.

CONGRESS, it is now expected will be able to adjourn on July 11—four days earlier than the appointed time.

FIVE millions of gold are to be sold and eight millions of bonds bought by Secretary Boutwell during June.

"WE want, if possible, a thoroughly honest Legislature for 1871," says a cotemporary. To which we say amen.

DURING 1867 there were built in the United States 65588 miles of railroad, nearly twice as many as any previous year.

THE Sandwich Island Reciprocity Treaty was defeated in the Senate by a vote of 20 yeas to 19 nays—two thirds being necessary to carry it.

A colored cadet named Michael Howard is at West Point. He appears to understand the "situation" as well as his white comrades.

WAYNE MCVEIGH, son-in-law to Simon Cameron, has been appointed Minister to Turkey. Hon. E. Joy Morris has held the position for nine years.

CONGRESS has agreed that henceforth the amount of exemption under the income tax shall be $2000, and the tax on incomes above that amount three per cent.

A shameful slaughter of Jews in Roumania has been perpetrated by the Christians. Our government has been importuned to take some action in the matter, and we hope it will.

TWO Indian chiefs named Spotted Tail and Red Cloud are at Washington consulting the authorities with regard to their wrongs and rights. They do not wish their reservations invaded, and prefer to live at peace with the white man.

THE Post office department, under the able management of General Cresswell, is getting in a healthy condition—the receipts now balancing the expenses. It is to be hoped the franking privilege will be abolished so that the department will yield a handsome revenue.

THE subject of taxing Government bonds was before Congress last week, Mr. Beck, a Democrat, introduced the amendment, which was debated at some length. Butler favored the scheme together with twenty-nine other Republicans, while Schenck opposed it. The vote was nays 110 and yeas 78.

THE business of appointing Luxurious Committees has been commenced by Congress. The first one appointed is a Senatorial Committee to go with a clerk and Sergeant-at-arms up and down the Mississippi river, to ascertain the people's views on the levee question. We suppose the clerk will do all the work, while the rest travel at the expense of the Government. This is a piece of extravagance that the people have no delight in, no matter what the legislators may think.

☞One damaging fact must be remembered by Republicans, that at least nine of every ten, (and perhaps a li,) of the men holding office in and from this county received from Senator Scott and Congressman Morrell, voted with the Democrats last fall and defeated Republican nominees for the Legislature and county offices. Men acting such a part may be tolerated in the party but they cannot be permitted to lead. Mr. Morrell know what the disorganizers' programme was, and he know that Mr. Scott was at the head of it, and it was his duty as a party man to require his friends to support a party ticket. If Mr. Morrell had given his influence for the ticket it would have been elected and the party would now be in a healthy condition.

A NOTABLE INCIDENT.—The respect of the President for the memory of his fallen comrades, as well as dislike of even appearances of ceremonious display, were illustrated the other day, on the occasion of the decorative ceremonies, at Arlington, after a majority of the spectators had left the cemetery. The President and Mrs. Grant proceeded in their carriage to a comparatively retired section of ground, where the President devoted some time to strewing the graves. His movements were remarked, however, by a few lingerers at the graves of departed relatives or friends, and thus the incident became known.

"INVISIBLE" at Harrisburg, correspondent of the Blair Co Radical, writes like a thief, lies like a thief and we have no doubt is a thief, and a cowardly one at that. He is just the kind of a fellow anxious office seekers employ to do their dirty work.

THE dissatisfied ones who would like to leave home and go to the West are informed that there is already too much migration thither, and many of the cities, from Michigan to Kansas, are full of mechanics and laboring men who can find no employment, and labor is cheaper there than in the East. At Humboldt only a few days ago were about a thousand emigrant wagons filled with crying women and children, whose tears reproach at once the folly of their husbands and fathers and the cruelty of those who bade them shake off the dust of the East and advance upon the West like an army with banners. For the last five weeks the region has been cracked and warped by drouth, water can hardly be obtained, and thus to the pains of hunger are added the intolerable pangs of thirst. Emigrants to the West are returning in large bands, thankful only that their lives have not been lost.—Kansas is so overcrowded that it is next to impossible for a traveler to find any sort of accommodation, and labor is a drug.

☞Some dissatisfaction exists in certain quarters in regard to Sunday Schools and their management; some persons finding fault with the number of young persons employed as teachers; others denouncing the character of the libraries selected; and one reverned individual declared himself hostile to the Sabbath School because the "word is unknown in the Bible," and another pronounced the Sabbath School to be "one of the greatest evils of the time," adding that four-fifths of the convicts in New York penitentiary were found to have been pupils of the Sabbath School." These arguments show to what extent the denunciators of the Sabbath School have had their eyes opened, and we think they need a better acquaintance with the moral teachings there inculcated before they proceed with their denunciation.

☞The following exhibit of figures obtained at the General Land Office shows the disposition we are making of our public lands: Taken up, 12,201,980 acres; granted to soldiers for services prior to the rebellion, 61,076,922 acres; schools, asylums, universities and agricultural colleges, 70,282,787 acres; swamp lands given to States, 47,875,245 acres; granted to States for internal improvements, 12,403,054 acs. saline lands given to States, 514,585 acres; granted to individuals and companies, 11,195,567 acres; in aid of canals, as above stated, 1,450,000 acres; in aid of wagon roads, 3,782,212 acres; and in aid of railroads, 182,108,581 acres. This shows that 401,890,934 acres have been already disposed of. The public domain undonated, not including the Alaska purchase, is 1,206,756,503 acres.

☞Because we are in favor of clearing the track of stumbling blocks for the race for Congress next fall, some earnest friends of Mr. Morrell, (at least they want to be so considered that they may be permitted to stay "in" or get "in,") have got their "backs up" at us and think we should not have any influence with Republicans. If the whole party had taken our advice last year, its "situation" would not now be as uncertain as it is—and it may be worse if a new man should not be nominated.

The Senate.

HUNTINGDON, PENN'A, June 6th, 1870.

Editors Globe:—My attention has been called to a letter in a late number of the Hollidaysburg Register, in which the readers of that paper are informed that your humble servant has withdrawn his name as a candidate for the nomination of Senator in this district. This is news to me; I did not know before that my name had been mentioned in connection with such nomination, nor do I know now that it is withdrawn. At any rate, I am as much a candidate now as I was before that letter in the Register was written. I have always held the doctrine, and hold it still, (and this I suppose is one reason that I never was much troubled with holding office,) that the office should seek the candidate, and not the candidate the office; nevertheless I should esteem it a great honor to be chosen by the people of this district to represent them in the State Senate, and should promise to serve them faithfully and honestly. A nomination to be worth anything at this time must come from the people and be made by them. Politicians and office-seekers may by management succeed in fixing up a ticket, but I am very much mistaken in the temper of the times if the people at the polls will ratify any such private arrangements.

Respectfully Yours,
D. BLAIR.

One of the most singular sights growing out of the war is a continuous line of peach trees of nearly fifty miles in length, around Petersburg, and extending towards Richmond. They are growing from the breastworks thrown up by the rebel army, and are the only legacy left by the rebels who were on the advance. Having eaten of the fruit while on picket duty, they cast the seed aside, and now they appear in one continuous line of forty-five miles of beautiful trees, which yielded an abundant crop the last year.

An Ohio quince grower has been very successful for two years past with his fruit. His treatment of the tree is very simple. He spades the ground of his orchard every spring, and scatters a peck of coal ashes around each tree. He finds salt the best manure for the quince, and applies about one quart to the ground under each tree after the soil has been spaded, and another quart when the quinces are about half grown. Last year he sold three hundred bushels of quinces from his orchard of three-fourths of an acre.

Letter from Kansas.

LIBERTY, MONTGOMERY CO., Kansas, May 23d, 1870.

Editors Globe:—From this frontier county, in the spirit of greeting an old friend, do I send you a short communication, although for some time I have ceased to cater to the tastes of the "dear reading public." To day, riding along the banks of the Verdigris river, I was reminded of your—shall I not say our—own beautiful Juniata, save that gracing its banks there were not the long lines of fencing, nor any of the evidences that man had long been plying his arts and arms; only the hut of the squatter, and the incouth wigwams of Indians, now almost deserted, their former occupants having gone on their spring hunt, leaving only some of their squaws to attend the corn or "Squaw potatoes," as the Indians term the meagrely cultivated spots.

This is the Mecca to American Pilgrims at present. The first white settler came here a little over one year ago. To day within its borders is a population of at least 10,000 souls. Men from every State in the Union, nay, almost every country in the world are here; the thrifty German and industrious Swede, the glib-tongued Son of Erin, the witty Yankee, and last and least, the dirty, theiving red skin.

Mr. Editor, you cannot conceive the true condition of the "Dime Novel," noble red man without seeing him in his native state. He may be doomed to utter extinction, but never to civilization. The Quaker agents are not a success so far as tried here, and are very unpopular with the settlers. They are trying to make house dogs of the Indians, but will learn that the blood hound propensities will never be eradicated. All those pretty appeals to humanity over the Baker Massacre thro' eastern papers "go down" like nauseous drugs, to border men, who know the Indian's dog-like traits.

I have met here, many Pennsylvania farmers, who have sold the old home farm, that they might come where land is cheap, and get "all the boys a place" as they express it. They are invariably pointed out the best farmers, and I found this the case everywhere I have been west. This land has never been treated for, yet the claims are all occupied and to-day I stood on an eminence and counted 150 houses scattered over the prairie as far as eye could reach, where one year ago not one structure stood. Cattle have sufficient grazing to support them throughout the winter in an ordinary season; the soil is excellently adapted for cereals, and the land only awaits development by the hard sinewed pioneer farmer to make it an accession to our wealth that will have a realizing effect throughout all our broad land.

Massacre of Jews.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 1, 2 p. m.—A fearful war of religious intolerance has broken out in the Province of Nomuelia, the Metropolitan Province of the Turkish empire in the south of Europe. For sometime the native Christians have manifested a spirit of fearful vindictiveness against the Jewish population who have endeavored in vain to obtain from the Government some protection against outrage and extortion. A secret movement has been in organization for the extermination of the inoffensive Jews, and the deep and deadly hatred of the bigoted populace has only been slumbering awaiting a vent for its fury. On Sunday last, by a preconcerted signal the Christian populace rose and the fearful work of butchering was inaugurated. At an early hour the houses of all the Jews were invaded, and those of the occupants who were unable to escape were massacred in cold blood. The fleeing Israelites were pursued through the town by the mob and murdered whereever caught, men, women and children were ruthlessly slain. The fury of the populace was inflamed by religious bigotry, and only exhausted itself for want of victims. In all the principal towns the fearful work of butchery provailed, and thousands of men, women and children of the repugnant class were butchered in cold blood. The work of slaughter still goes on in the interior, and nothing has been heard yet of any movement by the authorities to suppress it. The reigning Prince is absent from the province, and advantage was taken of this to complete the total extermination of all Jews from the province.

Prince Charles is hurrying home, and energetic measures will at once be taken by the Sultan to suppress this religious emeute. Meanwhile the fury of the mob continues unabated, finding fresh victims to glut its insatiate frenzy.

Exploits of a Female Sheriff.

An Iowa paper gives the following cheering account of the efficiency of a lady sheriff in that State:

It is reserved to Iowa to produce the first female sheriff, and to Des Moines county to be the first in the State to accord to a woman the difficult and trying duties of the sheriffalty. It is true the people have not formally elected a lady as sheriff of this county, but in so far as practice is better than precept, the substance superior to the shadow, and the deed greater than the name, to that extent Des Moines county has a lady sheriff. Of course we allude to the estimable wife of our worthy sheriff, J. H. Latty, Esq. Mrs. Latty at various times has displayed a remarkable coolness and nerve in the management of the county jail, over which she presides, with a firmness of judgment and a vigor of rule rarely excelled by the best of prison wardens.

At one time a desperado confined in one of the cells attempted to escape by making a man of straw reclining on his couch as usual, while the flesh and blood prisoner secreted himself in an empty cell and waited the advent of Mrs. Latty, who, in the absence of her husband, entered the jail room to look up the prisoners for the night.—When she came to the cell containing the man of straw, a very clever imitation of a man asleep, she called his name, and hearing no response, entered and detected the cheat. Instead of calling for help in an emergency which plainly indicated a plot and a determination upon the part of one or more prisoners to break jail, Mrs. Latty quickly proceeded to the other cell and marched the prospective fugitive back to his cell and locked him up. As he was a heavy, muscular man, and the deputy sheriff a slender, light-built woman, it is evident that nerve triumphed over muscle. Womanly courage is more than a match for brutal force and the desperation of a criminal seeking to flee from the hands of justice.

On another occasion, two young men in a cell refusing to cease their profane and boisterous language, the deputy entered the cell and gave them a sound flogging with a whip, until, with tears in their eyes, the rascals promised better behavior.

The last exploit of our deputy, and one which recalled to our mind the preceding incidents, was the taking of a prisoner to the penitentiary a few days ago. A man who had been arrested for stealing a carpet bag at the Union depot in this city, last January, was sentenced at the last term of the district court to two years' imprisonment in the penitentiary, and was taken to Fort Madison by Mrs. Latty alone, without any assistance from others, and duly delivered to Warden Helsey. The astonishment of the warden and the Fort Madisonians knew no bounds.

A Woman Shoots a Burglar.

About 11 o'clock last night the residence of Dr. Gotchell, No. 1436 Spruce Street, was entered through a back window by a burglar, who succeeded in gathering together a number of silver forks, knives, spoons, wearing apparel, etc. Like "Little Oliver," not satisfied, he desired more, and accordingly commenced ransacking the parlor. At the time Dr. Gotchell was absent on a visit to one of his patients, and no male adult, other than the burglar, was in the house. Mrs. Gotchell, in her bedchamber overhead, heard the noise in the parlor, and at once surmised the cause, but not knowing how many or how few persons were in the house, she for a time kept quiet.

At length she determined to brave the danger and make a reconnoissance. Accordingly she quietly made her way down stairs, and approaching the parlor door, which was partially open, discovered but the one person, candle in hand, searching for plunder. Now Mrs. Getchell, although a woman, does not lack courage, a quality some would have us believe no woman possesses, and finding but one thief in the house she determined to give him battle. Making her way up stairs again, as noiselessly as she had descended, she secured her husband's revolver, and once more proceeded down stairs. When near the bottom, the stairway made a squeaking noise, and the thief taking alarm, dashed out of the parlor and past Mrs. Getchell. Although the shock was sudden she remained firm, and coolly taking aim, fired at and wounded the burglar, although where, or to what extent, is not now known. The rascal kept on, clambered through the window by which he had entered into the yard, then on to a hydrant, then over the fence and escaped. An examination of the premises showed that the burglar had bled profusely, as splotches of the crimson were discernible all along the hall way, on the window sill, in the yard, and on the fence. It is unnecessary to add that he secured no plunder other than the leaden pellet which he carried as a souvenir of Mrs. Getchell's skill as a "shootist."—Philadelphia Telegraph, 3d inst.

Doings of a Rat.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A few days since Mrs. Smith, residing in East Brooklyn, was attracted by the screams of a child, sleeping in one of the upper rooms of the house. As she entered the room a large rat sprang from the cradle and made his escape, and Mrs. Smith discovered the child's leg mutilated. A physician was called, but the child sickened and died in a few days.

Mrs. Smith had taken a poor woman to live with her, who had a child about the same age as the one she had lost. This woman left the child asleep for a short time, and, alarmed by hearing it scream, she hastened to it, and found the rat just making his escape. He had bitten the child severely in the neck, severing some of the cords. This child, like the other, immediately sickened and died.

The Borough Dads are still making public improvements. We never want to see them still.

Tyrone wants a Lodge of Odd Fellows. It is an institution that should adorn every town in the land.

Some of the ladies of Johnstown indulge in snuff-dipping—one lady goes to the extreme of using ten pounds a month.

Rev. K. O. Branigan, pastor of Clearfield, lectured in the Catholic church of this place on Thursday evening last Subject: "The Infallibility of the Pope."

A monkey escaped from Grady's show at Bloody Run recently. One that might perform as well can be found in Bellefonte at the Watchman office.

An exchange says there is nothing so calculated to call out the deep earnestness of a true woman, and enlist her most faithful devotion, as doing up her back hair.

Margaret Debaugh, a girl of 13, died of hydrophobia, at Harrisburg last week. She was a comely girl, and engaged to be married shortly. The bite occurred nine weeks ago.

One of the gentler sex says that the heaven of the strong-minded woman is "where buttons grow in their proper places, and men cease from bothering, and needles are at rest."

Huntingdon belongs to the Harrisburg Presbyterian Synod, which is composed of the intermediate counties between the west line of Elk, Clearfield, Blair and Bedford.

We hope the man who comes to Van Amburg's show with a high hat and a wagon full of children, will not go away saying he hadn't money enough to subscribe for his county paper.

Fred. Pickett, the man who died of injuries received on the railroad, was buried on Wednesday last, with the honors of war, a squad of the Light Infantry performing the ceremony.

The next District Convention of Good Templars will be held at Tyrone on the third Tuesday in August Rev Thomas Barnhart was chosen W C T, and Benjamin M. Rauker, Secretary.

Andrew Allison, of St. Clair twp., Bedford county, attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a razor, and stabbing himself in the side. He didn't quite give the undertaker a job for his coffin.

"It is as good as a letter from home," as one of our western subscribers said when he renewed his subscription last week. Reader, have you no distant friend that you would have remember you by sending him THE GLOBE?

The butchers of Johnstown paint their wagons, etc., with the national colors. There is only one other class of men who use the red, white and blue stripes, and they are the barbers; are we to understand the butchers shave also?

The census-taker is on his travels. He finds "popping the question" isn't such an enviable job, among some people. For instance: "What's the age of your best looking daughter?"—"None of your business, you impertinent scamp you!"

At a church fair in Kansas City, a set of bedroom furniture was voted to a young lady, with the understanding that, if she was not married in a year, the furniture should be returned to the church. She is now on the war path, armed with a bedstead.

A fight occurred on Wednesday last in this borough, between a colored man named Tolivar, and two white men named Morningstar, in which one of the latter struck Tolivar in the head with a stone, causing an ugly gash.—The Sheriff placed them in jail.

A skiff poling contest came off at Mifflin the other day, between Jacob Sulouff, Esq., and Mr. Corus Switzer, in which the former was the victor.—He poled his skiff across the river, and did not vary three feet from a direct line. The amusement was witnessed by a large number of people.

Temperance.

The following "oak planks" were laid down for a temperance platform at the late session of the Huntingdon Presbytery:

1. Resolved, That we hereby as a presbytery, unanimously express our deep interest in the cause of temperance, and our earnest desire for its enlarged success.

2. Resolved, That we believe the Church herself to be the best temperance organization, and most efficient agent through which to accomplish its complete and final triumph.

3. Resolved, That while we consider the Church the best organization to promote this cause, so far from being unfriendly to voluntary organizations outside of the Church, we wish well to every such proper effort as may advance the cause.

4. Resolved, That we enjoin pastors, and sessions, and all church members to exert their influence to the utmost to promote this cause by all their personal or organized efforts.

5. Resolved, That Presbytery would unhesitatingly express its condemnation of all such church members as sign petitions for license or who in any other way, directly or indirectly, countenance the manufacture, sale, or use of intoxicating drinks as a beverage.

6. Resolved, That the attention of the pastors of the Church be especially directed to this subject, and that they be recommended to be more frequent and faithful in their public instructions on this subject.

☞ Van Amburg & Co's Great Golden Menagerie, which is to be in Huntingdon on Saturday of this week, is an exhibition of established reputation and acknowledged merit. For nearly half a century it has been known as the leading menagerie of the age—having traveled extensively in Europe as well as America—and now, with its new features and increased attractions, to visits us after an absence of eight years, larger and more comprehensive than ever before. Its collection of living wild animals is not only the largest ever seen in this country, but it comprises many rare species of animals that have never been exhibited in America until now, with others that have only been shown at rare intervals. As an instructive and entirely unobjectionable exhibition it offers special inducements for the attendance of family parties, and it may be taken for granted that the rising generation will be fully represented in the immense audiences which it is sure to attract next Saturday. Excursion tickets at reduced rates will be issued over the H. & B. T. R. R for this occasion.

MOTHS IN CARPETS.—An experienced housekeeper says: 'Camphor will not stop the ravages of moths after they have commenced eating. Then they pay no regard to the presence of camphor, cedar or tobacco; in fact, I rather think they enjoy the latter, if anything, more than humanity can.—Nor will the dressed and inconvenient taking up and beating always insure success, for I tried it faithfully, and while nailing it down found several of the worms, 'alive and kicking,' that had remained under the pile unharmed. I conquered them wholly in this way: I took a coarse crash towel and wrung it in clean water and spread it smoothly on the carpet, then ironed it dry with a good hot iron, repeating the operation on all suspected places, and those least used. It does not injure the pile or color of the carpet in the least, as it is not necessary to press, heat and steam being the agents; and they do the work effectually on worms and eggs. Then the camphor will doubtless prevent future depredations of the miller."

A DARING LAD.—A five year old son of Mr. John Westbrook of this borough, performed a feat of daring on Wednesday last that but few boys of his age would dare to do. The little fellow, unobserved and unassisted by any one, climbed up the attic stairs to the trap door, opened it, and ventured out upon the roof, which is very sloping. Unconscious of his peril he amused himself in climbing over the roof, even going as far as the eaves, and looking upon the pavement below. A passer by happened to see him, when he climbed back again, and appeared to enjoy the romance more than the spectators.

A NEW CHURCH.—The Presbyterian congregation of this place, on Thursday evening last, by a large majority decided to purchase a lot for the purpose of erecting thereon a new church. The present one is found inadequate, needing repairs, and the services being interrupted by the noise of passing trains, it was thought advisable to husband the money needed in repairs and apply it to the erection of a new church. We learn that over fifteen thousand dollars have already been subscribed, and the proposals for building will be taken so that the work will commence next spring.

☞ Everybody will advise you to go to the Castilian Garden when you come to town, because it is one of the grand summer resorts of our borough, equal to Saratoga Springs—if you only imagine so. It has a gentlemanly proprietor, Col. Summers, who superintends every department of the garden, and makes those feel welcome when they give him a call. We cannot resist the temptation of often entering the Garden and partaking of his luscious Ice Cream, and we know many of our citizens have the same weak spot in their "make up."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.—All Sunday School workers are most cordially invited to attend the third annual session of the Cassvillo M. E. Sunday School Convention, to be held at Bland Chapel June 15th and 16th.

A Painful Accident.

We are called upon to record a most painful accident, the facts of which as near as we can gather them are these:—On the evening of the 22d ult., Henry W. Hanawalt and wife left their only two little children, boys aged respectively two and three-and-a-half years, together with John S. Hanawalt's children, at the residence of the latter, in care of some young folks, whilst the parents of both families went to enjoy the communion meeting then pending at the Spring Run Church. Shortly after the departure of the parents the two little boys slipped out unnoticed, and went about the barn. Near the barn were a number of logs, lying upon sloping ground. One of the logs had by some means been rolled over its prop, a stone 4 or 5 inches thick, and lodged against a small piece of a board. The probability is, that the little boys, in playing, lifted the board, which started the log, and it caught the elder of the two, tripping him down, and lodging upon his chest, crushing the little fellow under its ponderous weight. The younger brother ran to the house with repeated cries, "log on Josie," which arrested the attention of the persons in charge, who ran out and discovered the painful picture above described. There were three large boys quickly summoned, but, being unable to lift or remove the log otherwise, they rolled it on down over the little boy's head, bruising and crushing it considerably, which, possibly, may have set the seal to all chances of returning life. The ground under the little sufferer showed evidence of considerable struggle, and was moistened with bloody matter which had foamed from his mouth during his agonies. The painful intelligence reached the parents just as they were seating themselves at the communion table at the church. Their emotions and manifestations caused some confusion at the time; but the simple facts being publicly stated, the meeting proceeded with additional solemnity. The parents in their deep affliction have the sympathy of the whole community.—Lewistown Democrat.

There is a man in Harrisburg who has had a case at every Court of Quarter Sessions (either as prosecutor or prosecuted) except two, since 1824, extending over a period of forty-six years, and aggregating one hundred and eighty-two cases. He is now verging on seventy, and still figures in the Courts.

STRAWBERRIES.—The undersigned will be prepared to supply the public with Strawberries on and after the 6th of June. Persons in the country ordering by the quantity are requested to give a few days notice in advance of the time they are wanted.

ADDRESS

TO THE

NERVOUS AND DEBILITATED.

WHOSE SUFFERINGS HAVE BEEN PROTRACTED

FROM HIDDEN CAUSES, AND WHOSE

CASES REQUIRE

PROMPT TREATMENT.

TO RENDER EXISTENCE DESIRABLE

If you are suffering, or have suffered, from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Does a little extra exertion produce palpitation of the heart? Does your liver, or urine organs, or your kidneys, get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky or flocky, or is it ropy on settling? Or does a thick skum rise to the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing or dyspepsia? Are your bowels constipated? Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling on this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, moping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the lustre of your eye as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so, do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you restless nights? Your back weak, your knees weak, and have but little appetite, and you attribute this to dyspepsia or liver complaint?

Now, reader, self-abuse, venereal diseases badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think that those bold, defiant, energetic, persevering, successful business men are always those whose organs are in perfect health? You never hear such men complain of being melancholy, of nervousness, of palpitation of the heart. They are never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they don't become sad and discouraged, they are always polite and pleasant in company of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—none of your downcast looks or any other meanness about them. I do not mean those who keep the organs inflated by running to excess. These will not only ruin their constitution, but those they do business with or for.

How many men, from badly cured diseases, from the effects of self abuse and excesses, have brought about that state of weakness in these organs that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—idiocy, lunacy, paralysis, spinal affections, suicide, and almost every form of disease humanity is heir to—and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have doctored for all but the right one.

ROSADALIS

THE Great American Health Restorer, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women and all Chronic Affections of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and thousand of our best citizens.

Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore says:

I take pleasure in recommending your Rosadalis as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of all alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of scrofula and secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleanser of the blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreesboro' Tennessee, says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of rheumatism; used me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by John Read and S. S. Smith, Huntingdon, Pa., and Druggists generally.

WHAT I KNOW OF FARMING.

BY HORACE GREELEY.

XVIII.

ALKALIS—SALT—ASHES—LIME

I do not know a rood of our country's surface so rich in all the materials which enter into the production of the Grains, Grasses, Fruits and Vegetables, which are the objects and rewards of cultivation, that it could not be improved by the application of fertilizers; if there be such, I heartily congratulate the owners, and advise them not to sell. Nor do I believe that there are many acres so fertile that they would not produce more Indian Corn, more Hemp, more Cotton, and more of whatever may be their appropriate staple, if judiciously fertilized. If there be farms or fields originally so good that manure would not increase their yield, I am confident that the first half-dozen crops will have taken that conceit out of them. Prairies and river-bottoms may yield ever so bounteously; but that very luxuriance of growth insures their gradual exhaustion of certain elements of crops which must needs be replaced or their product will dwindle. Whoever has sold a thousand bushels of grain, or its equivalent in meat, from his farm, has thereby impoverished that farm, unless he has applied something that balances its loss. "I perceive that virtue has gone out of me," observed the Saviour, because the hem of his garment had been touched; and every field that had been cropped might make a similar report whenever its annual loss by abstraction has not been balanced by some kind of fertilizer. The farmer who grows the largest crops is the most merciless exhaustor of the soil, unless he balances his annual drafts (as good farmers rarely fail to do) by at least equal re-enforcements of the productive capacity of his fields.

The good farmer begins by inquiring, "Wherein was my soil originally deficient? and of what has it been exhausted by subsequent crops?" I judge that my gravelly hill-sides would reward the application of two hundred loads (or tuns) of pure clay per acre, as I think the clay flats which border Lake Champlain would pay for a like application of sand or fine gravel where that material is found in convenient proximity; and yet I know very well that, on at least three-fourths of our country's area, such application would cost far more than it would be worth. Every farmer must act on his knowledge of his soil and its peculiar needs, and not blindly follow the direction of another. Yet I know few farms that, were they mine, I would not consider enhanced in value by a vigorous application of some alkaline substance—Lime, Salt, Ashes, or some one of the cheaper Nitrates. I should be very glad to apply one thousand bushels of good house-made, hard-wood Ashes to my twenty acres of arable upland, if I could buy them, delivered, at twenty-five cents per bushel; but they are not to be had. I doubt that there are a hundred acres of warm, dry, gravelly or sandy soil east of the Alleghanies that would not amply reward a similar application. But Ashes in quantity are not to be had, since no good farmer sells them, and Coal is the chief fuel of cities and villages. The Marls of New Jersey I judge fully equal in average value to Ashes which have been nearly deprived of their potash, by leaching, but not quite half equal bushel for bushel, to unleached Ashes. I judge that average Marl is worth 10 cents per bushel where Ashes may be had for 25. But Marl is found in only few localities, and a material worth but 10 cents per bushel will not bear transportation beyond 40 miles by land or 200 by water. Salt is only found or made at a few points and is too dear for general use as a fertilizer. Where the refuse product of Salt works can be cheaply bought, good farmers will eagerly compete for it, if their lands at all resemble mine. I judge the tun of Potash I ordered fifteen years ago from Syracuse, paying $50 and transportation was the cheapest fertilizer I ever bought. It was so impregnated with Salt (from the boiling over of the salt-kettles into the ashes) as to be worthless for other than agricultural purposes; but I mixed it with a large pile of Muck that I had recently dug, and, six or eight months thereafter, applied the product to a very poor, gravelly hill-side which I had just broken up; and the immediate result was a noble crop of Corn. That hill-side has not yet forgotten the application.

If I should try to explain just how and why Lime is a fertilizer, I should probably fail; and I am well assured that liming has in some cases been overdone; yet I think most observers will concur in my statement that any region which has been limed year after year produces crops of noticeable excellence. I cite as examples Chester and Lancaster counties, Pennsylvania, with Stark and adjacent counties of Ohio. Possibly, results equally gratifying might be secured by applying some other substance; I only know that frequently limed lands are generally good lands, as their crops do testify. I heartily wish that the flat clay intervales of Western Vermont could have a fair trial of the virtues of liming. I should expect to see them thereby rendered friable and arable; no longer changing speedily from the semblance of tar to that of brick, but readily plowed and tilled, and yielding liberally of Grain as well as Grass. I am confident that most farms in our country will pay for liming to the extent of fifty bushels per acre where the cost of quick lime does not exceed ten cents per bushel; and most farmers, by taking hot from the kiln the refuse lime that is deemed unfit for building purposes, can obtain it cheaper than that.

I wish some farmer who gives constant personal attention to his work—as I can not—would make some careful tests of the practical value of alkalis. For instance: the abundance and tenacity of our common sorrel is supposed to indicate an acid condition of the soil; and all who have tried know that sorrel is hard to kill by cultivation. I suggest that whoever is troubled with it should cover two square rods with one bushel of quick-lime just after plowing and harrowing this Spring, then apply another bushel to four square rods adjacent; then make similar applications of ashes to two and four square rods respectively, taking careful note of the boundaries of each patch, and leaving the rest of the field destitute of either application. I will not anticipate the result; more than one year may be required to evolve it; but I am confident that a few such experiments would supply data whereof I am in need; and there are doubtless others whose ignorance is nearly equal to mine.
